 THE SPINE

Life comes in waves. The big, the heavy, the hilarious and everything in between.
Aaron's spent thirty years riding them with strangers. Now he's here for yours.

01 / LOGO SYSTEM

One mark. One wave.

The serif wordmark carries the whole brand. The wave is the only flourish — one line, drawn once, used quietly under headlines, between blocks and alongside the lockup. Nothing else. No script alt, no monogram, no second voice.

QUIET MOMENTS

~ B • THE WAVE

One wave. That's the lot.

The same smooth squiggle — under headlines, between blocks, anchoring the wordmark, marking section openers. Drawn once and re-used. Never multiplied, never variations, never accompanied by other marks. Always Sun (or Paper on Sun).

02 / PALETTE

Built from who Aaron actually is.

Four colours, four parts of him. The palette is anchored in Aaron's journey — each swatch is something real.

THE GROUNDING

Forest

Thirty years of Triple Zero calls. Thirty years of showing up for people on their hardest night.

The colour that holds everything else.

#0F3D33

THE ANCHOR

Slate

The morning after a hard week. Light through the lounge window. Quiet.

The colour that lets the others breathe.

#B8C5C8

THE SPARK

Sun

The joke that lands at the wake. The moment people stop holding their breath and laugh.

The colour Aaron earns his keep with.

#E8C547

THE VOICE

Paper

Plain words. No flourish. Just what needs saying.

The colour Aaron sounds like.

#FFFFFF

03 / TYPOGRAPHY

Bold when it counts.
Plain when it talks.
Italic when it whispers.

Each line is set in the font it describes. DM Serif Display speaks. Familjen Grotesk talks. DM Serif Display italic leans in for a word and then steps back.

DISPLAY • DM SERIF DISPLAY

REGULAR • PRIMARY

Oceans
Weddings Funerals

Headlines • section openers • display moments. Always sentence case, never caps. Set tight at large sizes.

BODY • FAMILJEN GROTESK

400 / 600

Plain words.
Short sentences.

Humanist grotesk, slightly warm. Carries every page without drawing attention to itself.

REGULAR MEDIUM SEMIBOLD
Have a yarn. Have a yarn. Have a yarn.

ACCENT • DM SERIF DISPLAY ITALIC
ONE WORD AT A TIME

for the one word that has to do the work the other two can't.

Never sets a headline. Never sets body. Used inline, mid-sentence, to lean on a single word.

04 / VOICE

ONE PRINCIPLE

~~~~ THE PRINCIPLE

Aaron talks to you like he already knows you.

Aaron doesn't open with a welcome. He opens like he's already talking to you. Every page, every caption, every video intro should feel that way.

HOLD TO THIS ON EVERY PIECE OF COPY.

IF IT COULD OPEN ANY CELEBRANT'S SITE, CUT IT.

05 / VOICE IN PRACTICE

Same context. Not the same brand.

The left column is what every other celebrant's website does. The right column is the only one that sounds like Aaron.

| CONTEXT                     | X NOT AARON • OPENS THE DOOR                                                                           | ✓ AARON • DROPS YOU MID-YARN                                                                                                                                     |
|-----------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 01WEDDING PAGE • OPENER | "Welcome to Oceans Celebrancy. I'm Aaron, and I'd love to help you celebrate your special day."        | "So you're getting married. Congrats. Let's make sure it doesn't feel like every other wedding you've been to."                                                  |
| 03INSTAGRAM CAPTION     | "Had the privilege of officiating Sarah and Tom's beautiful wedding last weekend. Such a special day." | "Sarah and Tom got married on Saturday. Her grandma cried, his best mate forgot the rings, and I made a joke about Tom's haircut that landed. Best kind of day." |

The test: if the line could open any celebrant's website, rewrite it. Aaron's copy always starts somewhere only he would start.

06 / TAGLINE IN USE

One tagline. That's it.

“Life comes in waves” carries the whole brand. It doesn’t need backup. It just needs to keep showing up wherever the brand does.

SAME LINE. SAME WAVE. THE BRAND KEEPS SPEAKING EVEN WHERE NO ONE’S LOOKING.

07 / INSTAGRAM • CONCEPT

@oceans_celebrancy.

Profile view on the left, three magnified concept posts on the right. So Aaron can see how the page reads at a glance and what each tile actually says.

CONCEPT PIECE - NOT A WORKING FEED

THE FEED • MAGNIFIED

Full palette rotated post to post. Sun, Slate, Forest — each tile carries one Aaron-ism and the URL. Nothing else.

Sun

The headline tile. Big serif.

01 Slate

The mid-yarn tile. A statement plus a real photo. Or just a photo.

02 Forest

The night tile. White serif on deep green. One Aaron-ism, set quiet.

03

ABOUT AARON

the big, the heavy, the hilarious.

Aaron White has spent thirty years showing up for people on their best, worst and everything-in-between days. First in emergency services. Now as the celebrant for people who refuse to do the big moments by the book.

Weddings. Funerals. Divorce parties. Naming days. MC work.

05 / APPLICATIONS

The wordmark in the wild.

Five surfaces. Same locked system. No new colours, no new wordmark variations — just the brand doing its work.
